Tax collections top $1 million

BY ELLIS CUEVAS

More than one million dollars in property taxes have been collected by the Hancock County tax office since December 1. Eddie Murtagh, assessor/tax collector, said, "The majority of the taxes collected thus far have been received through the mail. Taxes collected are for the tax year of 1993, and are Hancock County, city and school taxes."

Murtagh instituted a mail policy some five years ago, for taxpayer convenience.

"It is estimated the tax office will collect some $11 million within the year in property, school, ad valorem, personal property, public utilities, mobile homes, motor vehicle and privilege taxes," he said.

The onetime signing for Homestead Exemption has been extended for another year. The extension was recently ratified by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors.

"Those whose status remains the same as last year for Homestead Exemption will not have to come in and sign again. However, those individuals who have had any changes in their status must come in and file or refile," Murtagh said.

Those filing Homestead Exemption for the first time must go to the assessor's office (164 Main Street, Bay St. Louis) between January 1 and April 1.

Former Citizen of Year Piazza dies Wednesday

Longtime Hancock County resident Ina LeBlanc Piazza died Wednesday, December 22, 1993, in Bay St. Louis at the age of 84.

Mrs. Piazza, born in New Orleans March 29, 1908, was well-known and actively involved with religious, community service and volunteer projects in Hancock County.

In 1985, she was named Hancock County Citizen of the Year by the Chamber of Commerce. She had also received a volunteer award from the State of Mississippi.

Controversial ruling

Approval of Gold Strike site spurs lawsuit by casinos; Miss. Landing still alive

Ina Piazza

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Mississippi Landing "absolutely" is alive as a proposed casino site in Hancock County, says one of its five partners, David R. Belding.

"We would certainly hope that in the future the opportunity would present itself to do something on that site as well," Belding said of the Highway 603-Interstate 10 acreage under option as Mississippi Landing.

The "as well" refers to the same partners' construction of Gold Strike Casino in Harrison County, at I-10 and DeLisle Road. The state Gaming Commission approved Gold Strike's site last week, leading to an immediate lawsuit by the Mississippi Casino Operators Association.

Belding and four other Nevada developers initially proposed constructing a $100 million casino complex in Hancock County. Estimates were that the development would channel over $8 million annually to Hancock County, the schools, law enforcement, fire protection and the library.

CASINOS OPPOSE

Existing casinos in Biloxi, Gulfport and Bay St. Louis, however, protested that the Mississippi Landing site actually is part of the Jourdan River, and therefore illegal. Mississippi Landing officials contended that the site is part of the Bay of St. Louis, legally acceptable for gaming.

However, the developers optioned a second site not far east, also off I-10, in Harrison County. The development would be accessed by DeLisle Road, and connected to the Bay by a 1,200-foot channel.

Gaming Commission approval of the Gold Strike site came despite a fresh ruling from Attorney General Mike Moore that the site is not legal. Moore said casinos "along the coast on inland canals or other artificial watercourses created after passage" of the state gaming law are illegal.

Belding said, however, that the Gold Strike site "clearly is a site on the shore of the St. Louis Bay." The canal, he said, is simply a design feature to enhance public safety and pro-

RULING—Page 5A

Mid-Jan. opening likely for Jubilee

BY MARY G. SEILEY

Jubilee Casino's 1,000 employees should be on the job sometime between Jan. 3 and 14, state and local officials say.

Gaming Commission executive director Paul Harvey said Monday investigation of the casino's principals is all but complete by Colorado gaming commission officials. The only remaining step, he said, is face-to-face interviews that the investigators routinely perform.

While Harvey and Jubilee officials had hoped that step could be bypassed, expediting the opening date, Harvey said Colorado investigators insisted on following routine procedure. "They would not budge" on that point, Harvey said.

Jubilee, located at the western end of South Beach Boulevard in Hancock County, has been pushing for weeks to open its doors as soon as construction details were complete.

To speed the process up, the state hired investigators from Colorado to do the required background checks on Jubilee principals, because Mississippi's Gaming Commission staff is swamped with work, according to Harvey.

Harvey said Monday he didn't try to push Colorado to alter its routine, final stage interviews. As a practical matter, he said, state Tax Commission auditors wouldn't have been available during the Christmas holidays to do a required review of the casino's procedures prior to opening. The state's auditors are taking Christmas vacations, he said.

Harvey said Jubilee's application is in front of Grand Casino Biloxi for action. He expects both, however, to open in January.

George Baxter, Jubilee's chief executive officer, said he expects the Gaming Commission will call a special meeting immediately after the interviews and auditors' work is complete. That should have the casinos doors open for business no later than Jan. 14, he said.

Well, Merry Christmas!

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

By Father Jerome LeDoux, SVD

"How are you folks over there at St. Augustine? I was just watching the news about the shooting down the street from you, and wondered whether you were safe."

On the heels of that telephone greeting, all I could do at the moment was say within myself with haunting melancholy, and a very Merry Christmas to you too!

Mike Fritzen, pastor of St. Paul the Apostle, was not alone in wondering what was going on down Governor Nicholls St. and around the whole town. Avery Taylor was perplexed too as she and her son, Aulston, sat at home.

"Get down, mother!" Aulston shouted as shots rang out just around the block. "Get down!"

Uppermost in their minds, as in the minds of so many locals, is the remembrance of sporadic incidents where people minding their own business in the privacy of their homes were brought down by stray bullets meant for others.

Not infrequently in the dead of night, an explosion raises speculation as to whether the report came from a 22 caliber, a 38, a magnum 350 or some other type of firearm. It punctuates the lethal truth: 380-plus homicides in New Orleans.

"Yet in thy dark streets shineth the everlasting Light. The hopes and fears of all the years are met in thee tonight." Yes, somehow, Merry Christmas!

"City sidewalks, busy sidewalks dressed in holiday style; in the air there's a feeling of Christmas. Children laughing, people passing, meeting smile after smile..."

Oh sure, the sidewalks are busy, and so are the practiced, light-fingered pickpockets, purse-snatchers and others who make us pay a severe penalty for any lapse in alertness. Now that's real holiday style for the vermin of the underworld.

The TV news is even showing police perched in the windows of tall buildings overlooking shopping areas. Armed with binoculars and walkie-talkies, they spot would-be pickpockets, track them and, if they make a move, call officers below.

And near those busy city sidewalks, there is no one more vulnerable to predators than the homeless who live and sleep in the parks, in the doorways and under the expressways. Surely, a Merry Christmas to them!

Yes, a "Very Merry Christmas" means more and better opportunities to the predators of our so-called civilization. It means jangling or, nowadays, beeping cash registers to the hard-core business people ever eager to turn a profit.

The eyes of airlines owners gleam as people around the nation queue up to ticket counters, perparing to take wing to their respective kin, humming, "I'll be Home for Christmas."

Yet, "Merry Christmas" means a hollow, meaningless charade for an overwhelming number of people who have little or no closeness in their families, perhaps no genuine friends and few, if any, associates with whom they are comfortable.

No wonder myraids of people

Local cab company offers free rides home during holiday eves

If you've had a bit too much holiday cheer, don't take the situation or the keys into your own hands.

For the second year in a row, Louis' Cab Service in Waveland will offer free rides home to anyone who has had a bit too much holiday cheer.

Owners Louis and Mertie Hearty said the free service will be available from 6 p.m. until Christmas Eve and New Year's Eve.

Louis Hearty said the only stipulation is "they have to be going home."

They are working in conjunction with all three local law enforcement agencies to cut down on drinking and driving and to help ensure a safe holiday season.

Anyone needing transportation should contact Louis' Cab Service at 467-1260, the Sheriff's Department or Bay St. Louis and Waveland Police Department.

At 11:51 p.m. Sunday, a Green Meadow Road resident called the Bay St. Louis Police Department to report his car stolen, according to Bay St. Louis detective Shane Corr.

ON PATROL

ARRESTS

A county-wide undercover operation by the Hancock County Task Force resulted in 18 of 24 clerks being charged with the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors, according to Bay St. Louis Police detective Shane Corr.

Corr, who is also assigned to the task force, said the operation consisted of a three-night investigation on Nov. 22, 24 and 26.

He said in each instance, a 19-year-old female entered the store to buy alcohol. The 18 clerks who sold the minor alcohol were summoned to court and face misdemeanor charges.

The charge carries a fine of not less than $500 and not more than $1,000 for a first-time offender.

Corr said more undercover operations are planned, as problems with juveniles and alcohol has increased.

According to Corr, the number of juvenile arrests for public drunkenness, DUI and possession of alcohol "has been increasing greatly."

He said the police are trying to assist SADD and MADD and "nip this thing in the bud."

Assisting Corr in the operation was detective Kurt Raymond, sheriff's department junior auxiliary officer Gary Ponthieux and junior auxiliary officer Brenda Chorba.

AUTO THEFT

Dwayne Deakles, 36, of Columbia, Miss., was arrested Dec. 19 in Bay St. Louis and charged with the theft of an auto.

At 11:51 p.m. Sunday, a Green Meadow Road resident called the Bay St. Louis Police Department to report his car stolen, according to Bay St. Louis detective Shane Corr.

Corr said Officer Pavolini pursued the vehicle, which led the officer on a chase until it ended in a ditch on Blue Meadow Road.

Corr said Deakles is being held on a $5,000 bond.

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Many of our residents will be traveling the highways and roadways this weekend to visit relatives and friends.

Traffic on our highways and roadways will be increased tremendously, as always on a holiday weekend.

This will mean taking a little longer to reach a destination than during normal traveling.

I would like to urge all travelers to give themselves some extra time to make the trips.

When traffic is very heavy, it usually takes a little longer to reach ones destination.

Please do no drink and drive. If you go out and party and know you will be drinking, leave the driving to a designated driver.

Far too many are killed during the holiday season because of drinking and driving.

I wish each and every one of you a very happy and safe holiday season.

The year 1994 will become a reality within a few days.

This may be a time for each of us to review the past year and look forward to a new year.

We hear a lot about making New Year's resolutions, and do so, but most of them are only kept for a few days and then forgotten.

It is probably better for most folks to only make one or two New Year's resolutions and thus continue them throughout the year.

In Hancock County, for many the year 1993 was a good year.

Our unemployment rate is down compared to the previous year; this is even with an influx of new people.

People are working today in Hancock County who have never worked before.

The opening of the second casino will also mean more jobs to residents, so 1994 should be a good year, too.

We should have much to look forward to during 1994.

THE PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

From the Mississippi
Economic Council

Surplus should fund nonrecurring items

Mississippi's treasury is bursting with surplus, much as the granaries of Biblical Egypt.

To protect their surplus grain, those ancient Egyptians simply had to deal with rodents and insects. We aren't that fortunate because the 1994 Mississippi legislature convenes in less than a month and advocates of spending are already in line.

No Legislature in state history has had the amount of extra General Fund money to spend as legislators will have this coming session. Various figures have surfaced — the lowest estimate is $230 million more in fiscal year 1995 than the current fiscal year that ends June 30, 1994. Other estimates top $300 million. The cash is projected to come from a surplus from this fiscal year and from growth in tax revenue.

Just two years ago, legislators slashed General Fund budgets for the second year in a row and increased the general sales tax a penny to seven cents on the dollar.

Now, thanks to more-than-projected revenue from gaming and corporate and individual income taxes, legislators must decide on where to spend the bonanza of extra dollars.

At the core of the debate — and the action to really watch — is how much of the extra money will be spent on items that will need the same amount of money in years to come as opposed to items that are funded just once.

"For Unto Us A Child Is Born"

May the holidays augur a bright new day for all of us and the world at large.

Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus

One December day in 1897, a little girl named Virginia O'Hanlon wrote this letter to The New York Sun:

"I am eight years old. Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Pap says, 'If you see it in The Sun, it's so.' Please tell me — is there a Santa Claus?"

An answer to Virginia's letter was written by Francis B. Church, an editorial writer for The Sun. Written in a moment of spiritual insight, his answer has lived through the years and stands today as the classic reply to the thousands of children who ask each year, "Is there a Santa Claus?"

"Yes, indeed!" "Virginia, your little friends are wrong. They have been afflicted by the skepticism of a skeptical age — they do not believe except what they see — they think that nothing can be which is not comprehensible by their little minds."

"All minds, Virginia, whether they be men's or children's, are little."

"In this great universe of ours, man is a mere insect, an ant, in his intellect, as compared with the boundless world around him, as measured by the intelligence capable of grasping the whole of truth and knowledge."

"Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus."

"He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy. Alas! How dreary would be the world if there was no Santa Claus! It would be as dreary as if there were no Virginias. There would be no childlike faith then, no poetry, no romance to make tolerable this existence. We would then have no enjoyment, except in sense and light. The eternal light with which childhood fills the world would be extinguished."

"Not believe in Santa Claus! You might as well not believe in fairies —"

"You might tell your papa to hire men to watch in all the chimneys on Christmas Eve to catch Santa Claus, but even if they did not see Santa Claus coming down, what would that prove? Nobody sees Santa Claus — the most real things in the world are those neither children nor men can see."

"Did you ever see fairies dancing on the lawn? Of course not, but that's no proof that they are not there — nobody can conceive of or imagine all the wonders that are unseen and unseeable in the world."

"You tear apart a baby's rattle and see what makes the noise inside, but there is a veil covering the unseen which not the strongest man, or even the united strength of all the strongest men that ever lived, could tear apart. Only faith, fancy, poetry, love, romance, can push aside the curtain and view and picture the supernatural beauty and glory beyond."

"Is it real? — ah, Virginia, in this world, there is nothing else real and abiding."

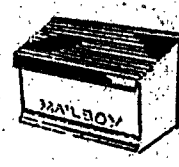

"No, Santa Claus! Thank God — he lives and he lives forever — a 1,000 years from now, Virginia, nay 10,000 years from now, he will continue to make glad the hearts of childhood."

Christmas Away From Home

Merry Christmas to all and Happy New Year, sent with lots of love and filled with good cheer. To all of you living way out there, is this box filled with gifts, all wrapped with care. But stop for just one minute if you will, and ask everyone with you to please be still. For this little Christmas poem I have written for all of you to hear, and I'd like for you to listen. So please have someone read it aloud, forming a circle or a small little crowd. You can sit or stand, it doesn't really matter, so long as you can hear and there's not a lot of chatter. To each and every one of you we love, it's time to be thankful to the one above. For making us all healthy, strong and wise, in a world filled with so many choices and compromise. We struggle through each day without a thought until times like this we remember not. That giving expensive gifts isn't what it's about, It's that Jesus was born, our Savior no doubt. So whether we're all together or far apart, we all have one another close in our heart. Not just at Christmas, but all year through, because Jesus is here in all that we do. I ask you today even though we're not there, to pray to yourself your own little prayer. Thank God for each other and all that He has done, keeping us together in bad times and in fun. And with that, I will end this little Christmas poem, with hopes that one day we will all be home. So open the gifts that we have sent, and remember, it's the thought and not how much we spent.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Resident offended by comments about officials

Dear Editor,

Recently I went into a business that is a charitable organization, I do not know if this business on Coleman Ave. in Waveland pays their employees or if they are simply volunteers or if it doesn't matter, in either case. I was going to ask for some assistance when I thought that I should leave. I was shocked to hear the employees cursing the official leaders of the city of Waveland. After all, they live and work in Waveland, and they should not speak ill of our city officials in front of the public.

If they are paid workers, they should be fired. If they are volunteers, they should be replaced by other volunteers.

Thank you,
Marcie Shoenberg

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Investigative reporter exposes gas company's cushy trips

Thank goodness there are still some investigative reporters left in Mississippi. Not many, I can assure you.

Had not one reporter, for example, begun digging into a fat cat lobbyist taking state legislators on cushy trips, Mississippians would never have known about them.

As a result, two weeks ago the state for the first time in history saw a gas company which lobbies the state Legislature found guilty and fined for violating state law regulating lobbyists.

Texas Gas Transmission Corp., now based in Owensboro, Ky., was ordered by a Hinds County judge to pay a $3,000 fine for failing to report trips it hosted for a half dozen state legislators to the Memorial Day Indy 500 in Indianapolis, Ind. for the years 1992 and 1993.

County Judge Chet Henley required as part of the company's pleading no contest to lobby law charges brought by Atty. Gen. Mike Moore that they will stop the practice of hosting legislators at the premier auto racing event.

Besides that, Texas Gas officials pledged to the court that the company would no longer operate during legislative sessions a round-the-clock hotel room near the State Capitol stocked with free booze and food to entertain lawmakers.

My gosh, legislators' "home away from home" at the Sun-N-And Hotel just won't be the same!

All of this has come about because a pesky newspaper reporter, Terry Cassreino, capital correspondent in Jackson for the Biloxi-based Sun Herald, last June began digging into two Coast legislators taking an expense paid trip to the Indy 500.

Cassreino found and reported that the two — Sens. Brad Lott (R) Pascagoula and Tommy Robertson (R) Moss Point — had been hosted at the Indy 500 by Texas Gas Transmission Corp. But besides Lott and Robertson, Cassreino also reported that three other lawmakers — Reps. Billy Bowles, (D) Houston, Steve Holland, (D) Plantersville and Tommy Woods, (D) Byhalia, also made the trip.

Then, in a follow-up story a couple of weeks later, Cassreino reported that Texas Gas had not filed complete lobbying expense reports with the Secretary of State's office listing all the lawmakers it had taken to the Indy 500 in 1993 and also in 1992 and 1991.

The reporter turned up the fact that Woods had gone to the Indianapolis race with Texas Gas, and also former Rep. John Pennebaker of New Albany, had made the 1992 race, as well as the 1991 race, as the guest of the natural gas company.

His story in the Sun Herald on June 30 had also reported that Secretary of State Dick Molpus was asking the Attorney General's office to investigate possible lobby law violations involved.

State laws require either companies or individuals who lobby the Legislature to report all expenditures over $25 and name the lawmaker on who it is spent. Remarkably, out of $4.76 million reported being spent by 360 lobbyists and 267 employers in 1993, less than 1 percent itemized any expenditures over $25 or the name of any lawmaker on whom it was spent.

Once the Texas Gas lobby report investigation was handed over to the Attorney General's office, Cassreino, now joined by Glenda Hensley, state director of Common Cause, the citizens' lobby, a leading proponent of stronger lobbying regulations, began pressing the AG for a follow-up on the investigation.

"I believe (Atty. Gen.) Mike Moore got tired of hearing from me almost every day," Hensley said last week.

After five months of investigation, Moore quietly took a chastened group of officials from Texas Gas Transmission Corp. before Judge Henley on Nov. 18 and they offered no resistance to the charge of failing to comply with the state lobby law.

"We look upon it as a mistake and something that we have to learn from and something we will grow from," said a company general counsel.

Now the next step Secretary of State Dick Molpus is pushing the upcoming 1994 Legislature to take is tightening of requirements to list lobbying beneficiaries, and eliminating of the $25 "per occasion" expenditure loophole.

In view of what happened to Texas Gas, a lot of lobbyists who ply the halls of the state Capitol may not be laughing at the law anymore.

Ruling

fect the environment.

He and Gaming Commission executive director Paul Harvey both said Monday that opposition to the Gaming Commission's action is based solely on other casinos' fear of competition.

Harvey termed the site "beautiful," and noted it's the first to win Gaming Commission approval under a new procedure in which environmental concerns are addressed prior to site approval.

While the casino operators' group filed suit to block the development, Hancock County's two casinos have different positions on the controversy.

MAGIC'S VIEW

Casino Magic's public relations manager, Len James Giaccone, said the state Legislature never envisioned casino construction along the interstate. If channeling to connect the Bay or the Mississippi Sound to a casino site is proper, he said, what's to stop a casino being built in Meridian, connected by a long channel to the Sound?

Besides, he said, the existing casinos have "played by the rules" laid out in the initial law. Reinterpreting the law to allow inland casinos simply "isn't fair," he said.

He denied the notion that existing casinos fear competition, but said those who built on the Sound or the Bay may well have wanted a more inland site themselves if it had been thought legal.

JUBILEE SUPPORTS

George Baxter, chief executive officer of Jubilee Casino, said he disagrees with Casino Magic and the other members of the casino operators group.

Gold Strike is on the Bay of St. Louis as much as Jubilee is on the Mississippi Sound, he said.

"I can't believe they'd want to sue the Gaming Commission" over the point, said Baxter. Jubilee, expected to open next month, is not a member of the casino association.

Baxter said he agreed with opponents to the Mississippi Landing site, who argued that location was illegal. It would be hypocritical to oppose both sites, he said, because Gold Strike clearly is on the Bay of St. Louis.

CLARIFY LAW

Giaccone speculated that the Gaming Commission had approved the Gold Strike site in a move to force the Legislature to clarify the gaming law in the 1994 session.

There may well be such legislation, said State Sen. Bill Johnson, whose district includes Hancock and Harrison counties.

Johnson would like to see the law contain a clear physical description of where casinos are legal — also taking into consideration where all existing casinos are located.

Then, he said, the commission could devote itself to key licensing issues such as applicants' financial strength and reputation. Other agencies, he said, such as the Bureau of Marine Resources and Corps of Engineers, could deal with environmental questions.

The law as it stands, he said is "vague ... What we've done is left a great deal to human decision-making."

Johnson said creating a gaming zone for the Coast would, of course, include provisions for variances, much like city zoning ordinances do.

"I'm sure the Gaming Commission is doing its best to do its job," Johnson said of the Gold Strike matter. "They'd do better if we got them out of the decision-making as to where they can go."

Harvey, meanwhile, said the commission simply doesn't view the Gold Strike site as an "inland" location. "I don't view that site as inland anymore than Casino Magic."

He said Casino Magic no doubt did some dredging to accommodate its gaming barge in a marina off Bay St. Louis. Giaccone said there's a big difference in dredging the depth of a channel for safety purposes, and dredging inland.

"The marina was already here," Giaccone said of Casino Magic's site. "Everybody and his brother has had to do some dredging ... so your vessel will be able to go up and down safely" with the rise and fall of the water level.

Gold Strike's Belding said his group is hoping for an expedited hearing of the legal questions, so construction can start early next year.

Piazza

Said chamber director Charles Benvenuti Jr., when he presented Piazza with the award, "Through her continuous service to others, her life has truly demonstrated volunteerism and brotherly love in its finest sense."

She was a member of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church Altar Society, as well as the OLG and St. Clare Catholic Church St. Vincent de Paul Societies.

Her longtime community involvement included memberships in the Hancock County Red Cross, Civil Defense, Food Pantry, and Emergency Relief Fund; Hancock General and Hancock Medical Center Ladies Auxiliary; FEMA; RSVP; and the Warm Neighbor Program. Piazza was a charter member and remained on the RSVP advisory council.

As one of the founders of the Hancock County Food Pantry, she was instrumental in coordinating efforts between area food donors.

She was also a 35-year volunteer at the Biloxi Veterans Administration Hospital.

"Mrs. Piazza was instrumental in helping more people in Hancock County than anyone I have ever known," said Sea Coast Echo publisher and longtime friend Ellis Cuevas.

"She will be sadly missed by the many friends she made over the years."

Edmond Fahey Funeral Home in Bay St. Louis will conduct funeral services next week. Visitation will be 7-9 p.m. Monday, with a recitation of the rosary at 8 p.m.

A procession will leave the funeral home Tuesday at 9:45 for a 10 a.m. Mass at Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church. Burial will follow in Gardens of Memory Cemetery in Bay St. Louis.

Bridge delays holiday traffic

Bay St. Louis bridge travelers were delayed about 30 minutes Tuesday around 2:30 p.m. when a loss of power caused the bridge to stall when being lowered.

The bridge operator said the incident was "like blowing a fuse." She said the problem was corrected shortly after with a new part.

She said she was a little nervous with all the holiday traffic, but "everything is fine now."

'Twas the Sunday Before Christmas

'Twas the Sunday before Christmas and all through the church, Not a saint was stirring, in awe of Christ's birth. Their hearts were lifted with love to share, In hope that God's Spirit would be felt everywhere. The people were praying all snug in the pews, While visions of Jesus in their heads they would muse. The pastor was rejoicing as the pianist played, Silent Night, Holy Night, God's praises were made. When above the pulpit there rose such a clatter, I sprang from my pew to see what was the matter. Away from my pew I flew like a flash, I listened intently and suddenly felt rash. A light was breaking above us aglow, Gave a luster of mid-day to objects below. When what to my wondering eyes should appear, But a vision of Jesus so beautiful and clear. With His hair white as snow and His face like the sun, I knew in a moment He was the Holy one. More rapid than eagles, eight angels appeared Singing Glory to God and on Earth good cheer. Now Gabriel, now Michael, all angels of Heaven, Make known to the world Messiah is given. As dry leaves before the hurricane fly, The angels of God mounted the sky. So, up to the heavens of skies they flew, With a trail of light so glorious and new. And then in a twinkling I heard as they sang, King of Kings, Lord of Lords, it rang. As I drew down my head and was turning around Jesus stood before me, I felt my heart pound. He was dressed in white linen and His eyes were as fire. His hair as wool, on His lips a smile. With His arms opened wide I saw in His hands, The scars that were placed by the sin of all man. He was the image of love, full of peace and grace, His smile made me feel so warm in this place. In a wink of His eye and a nod of His head, Soon made me realize I had nothing to dread. He said not a word, but went straight to His deed, And filled all our hearts and met every need. As He turned to go I heard Him exclaim, Rejoice, Merry Christmas, tell the world of my name. Tell the world why I came.

FISHIN' YA'LL

By Jim Maness

Cedar Point area
yields quite a catch

It's time to go fishin' y'all. The Turtle was driving down Beach Boulevard over by Cedar Point when he encountered a terrific traffic jam. It was terrible. Cares were pulled all over the side of the road. People were crying and weeping. There was generalized histrionics. Even the normally stoic law enforcement agencies were in a state of generalized hysteria.

Since I could go no further by automobile, I got out of my car and kinda sauntered over to the seawall, which seemed to be the area where most people were congregating. As I neared the seawall I could see that the majority of the people were looking into the water.

I felt a sense of dread, as this could only mean that some terrible and perhaps earth-shattering event had just occurred in the water to draw the attention of all of those people. There were so many people in this location that there was a question as to if mail service needed to be established. At least that's what the postman said.

As I slowly made my way through the hysterical crowd I could see a man's head bobbing, weaving and yelling at the top of his lungs — "Look, look." Naturally I had to get close and look. It was awesome.

Danny Laitinen was holding up not one, but two 28-inch redfish that he had just caught. They were beautiful golden bronze in color and weighed at least 15 pounds each. Man, the Turtle had not seen such fish in a month and a half of weekends.

To rub it in big-time plenty on the milling, hysterical crowd, Danny informed everyone within hearing distance that he caught and released at least 15 or 20 reds that were only 20 inches or less in size. Life is tough, Danny, but we all have to suffer through the difficult times!

So, what's the story about the Cedar Point area?

The Cedar Point area is accessible by a couple of boat launches. There is a concrete ramp, right at the end of Cedar Point, that Danny uses most of the time to launch his flat boat to fish the area.

The word "area" seems to be the best description that I can use. This is because the entire back side of the Bay of St. Louis can be fished from this boat launch.

This includes the mouth of the Jourdan River, as well as numerous other small rivers and bayous. In other words, it is a winter time fisherman's paradise.

The water is currently so clear that you can see bottom in at least 8 to 10 feet.

Let's go back to the story about Danny for a few moments and get his story as to what he did to find the red monsters in the Cedar Point area.

According to Danny, he was somewhere around the mouth of "moving water" — that's as close as he would tell me as where his spot was. Anyway, he noticed that the water "glassed out" around 10 o'clock. When it glassed out there were large schools of mullet that were moving down the "moving water" to the open bay.

He noticed that all of a sudden the schools of mullet started to go crazy, and strikes started to appear all over within the schools.

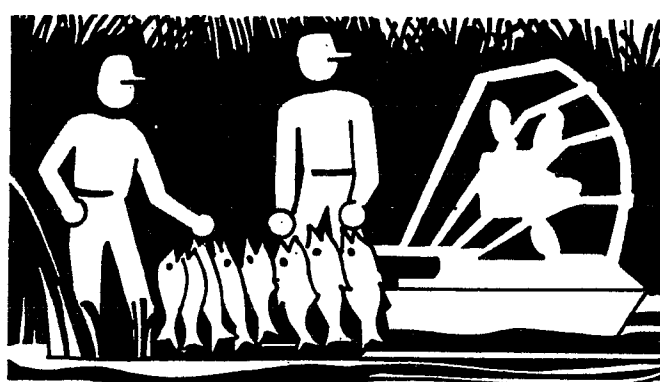

Danny concluded that there must be something feeding in the school. He cast his cacaho, which was about three feet under a popping cork, right in front of the strikes, and wam-mo. His conclusion was correct, there was something feeding in the mullet. The action continued for about 45 minutes then quit as the mullet disappeared.

Several fishermen in the area advised me that if you head in the direction of the water tower on the other side of the Bay (the Harrison County side) that there are several small bayous on the Harrison County side of the Bay that are producing some good catches of specks on both cacahoes and white beetles. You can see this water tower as soon as you get out of the boat launch.

This week's wonderful wise words: Ho, Ho, Ho, Merry Christmas to all the fishin' buddies.

What horsepower outboard does Santa use on his sleigh, Turtle?

Free hunting, fishing
digests offered to public

The Mississippi Department of Wildlife, Fisheries and Parks has received 400,000 copies of the first-ever Mississippi Hunting & Fishing Digest.

Donated by H&F Publications, Inc. of Jackson, the digest seems to be a success with outdoorsmen. Full of current information on hunting and fishing regulations, licenses, wildlife management areas and state parks, the digests have been distributed statewide by the MDWFP since late August.

The MDWFP acknowledges that the books have been well received and are pleased with their popularity.

"It was very important to us to donate these handy reference books to the MDWFP at no cost to taxpayers," T. Logan Russell of H & F Publications, said.

"The 1994-95 edition will be bigger and better, and we (H & F Publications) welcome any comments."

The Bob Harmon Forecast

NFL Forecast for Saturday, Sunday and Monday
Dec. 25-27

**San Francisco, 26—Houston, 22 (Saturday) This is as good a pick for the Super Bowl as any, with two outstanding offenses and competent defenses — the better of which is the Oilers'. San Francisco has won four straight in this series.

Atlanta, 21—**Cincinnati, 12 (Sunday) If the Falcons had a defense, they might be contenders, but that won't matter against the Bengals, who've scored less than half as many points as they've given up. Atlanta was a 38-17 winner in '90.

**Buffalo, 24—N.Y. Jets, 23 When the Bills and Jets met in October, Buffalo won with defense, 19-10, taking away two fumbles and two interceptions and scoring its only TD on an interception return. This one will be closer.

**Chicago, 17—Detroit, 14 In a game that may determine the NFC Central champions, the Lions will try — and fail — to avenge the Bears' 10-6 win a month ago, when Chicago forced four turnovers. Another defensive struggle.

Cleveland, 19—**L.A. Rams, 13 These two teams haven't met since the Rams beat the Browns 38-23 three years ago. With these offenses, that high a score is unlikely: Cleveland's strength is the run, which the Rams can handle.

**Dallas, 28—Washington, 14 With the Emmitt Smith-less Cowboys looking lazy and everyone thinking the Redskins would have a solid season, Washington beat the Cowboys in the first week of the season, 35-16. Things changed.

**Denver, 23—Tampa Bay, 10 The Broncos and Buccaneers met twice years ago, and Denver won both games by a combined 72-20. For what it's worth, T.B.'s best category is pass defense, which may help prevent another blowout.

**Green Bay, 20—L.A. Raiders, 16 With similar records, offenses (best through the air) and defenses (strongest against the pass), the Packers and Raiders should play a close, low-scoring game. G.B. won 29-16 three years ago.

Kansas City, 24—**Minnesota, 17 Here are two more teams following the NFL's trend toward mediocre offense and outstanding defense. It's been three years since they fought to a 24-21 K.C. win. Joe Montana & co. look too strong.

**New England, 14—Indianapolis, 12 Despite the AFC East standings (and Indianapolis's 9-6 win over New England on Halloween), the Pats are better on both sides of the ball, and Bill Parcells will motivate them to win this game.

**Philadelphia, 26—New Orleans, 21 This may look like an upset, but the Saints haven't played like the Saints since early October. The Eagles haven't played much like the Eagles, either, but they'll be loose with nothing to lose.

**Phoenix, 22—N.Y. Giants, 19 As proof of how pesky the Cardinals can be, a month ago the Giants needed Brad Daluiso's desperation 54-yard field goal to beat Phoenix 19-17. The heartbreak not forgotten, there'll be an upset.

Pittsburgh, 21—**Seattle, 18 For the Steelers this is a huge game, against a team that's been known to beat them like a drum. When the Steelers win it's always close — like last year's 20-14 final after five Seattle pickoffs.

Miami, 27—**San Diego, 20 (Monday) The Dolphins aren't as good as their record, but the Chargers aren't good enough to beat them. In the '92 divisional playoffs, Miami knocked the Chargers cold, 31-0, ending S.D.'s winning streak.

AGAINST CHRISTIANITY

BY JOSEPH AND JESSICA GAMBINO

Why, after 2,000 years of Christian promises, do Christians still experience defeat? The unsuspected answer lies in the practices and beliefs of the religion itself. Read about it in a new, 386 page book now available in paperback. Send check or money order in the amount of $14.00 per copy to:

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Bay High Tigers dropped three games to the homestanding Poplarville Hornets on December 16.

In junior varsity girls action, the Lady Tigers dropped a close 25-23 decision to the Lady Hornets.

In varsity girls action, the Lady Tigers dropped a 65-31 decision to the Lady Hornets.

Coach Debbie Triplett said, "The team gave a very good effort against a solid Poplarville team. All five starters are beginning to mesh together, which is an indication that they are gaining and consistency."

The Lady Tigers were led by Tylahana Jordan with 11 points and 4 steals. She was followed by Valerie Christmas, who chipped in 10 points and pulled down 8 boards. Lisa Yarbrough

The halftime score of the game was 39-28 in favor of the Hornets. The Tigers were only outscored 39-33 in the second half.

The Tigers were led offensively by Gerald Watson who canned 23 points, 8 rebounds and had 3 steals. He was helped by Robert Vonture who chipped in 19 points and 10 boards. Lee Morris added 10 points and had 5 steals.

Tigers drop two to d'Iberville Warriors

BY JOSEPH W. GEX II

The Bay High Tigers dropped two games to the d'Iberville Warriors on December 18 at the Tiger Dome.

In girls varsity action the Lady Tigers dropped a 51-20 decision to the Lady Warriors.

The Lady Tigers played an experienced d'Iberville team, and the inexperience of the Bay High team prevailed in the contest, said Coach Debbie Triplett.

Valerie Christmas led the Lady Tigers with 6 points and 10 rebounds. She was helped by Angela Young who chipped in 4 points.

BOYS VARSITY

In boys action, the Tigers dropped a 44-32 decision to the Warriors.

The Tigers were down at half-time 28-12; however, they came back to outscore the Warriors 20-16 in the second half.

The Tigers struggled the first half but surged the final 16 minutes. The first half scoring by the Warriors was just too much of an obstacle to overcome, said Coach Barney Necaize.

Gerald Watson led the Tigers with 17 points followed by Robert Vonture, who chipped in 8 points.

MPC advises hunters to get landowner's O.K.

Mississippi Power Company is reminding all outdoorsmen to check with private landowners before hunting on electric power line rights-of-way.

"Mississippi Power Company does not own these rights-of-way which traverse rural areas," Chip Speaker, manager, real estate, said. "These are privately owned lands that we have an easement on. The rights-of-way are not public land."

"Some have gotten into arguments with landowners saying the rights-of-way are either public lands or belong to Mississippi Power," Speaker said. "We want to make it clear that Mississippi Power does not own these rights-of-way and the private landowner has full authority to allow hunters to use the land or to post it."

Mississippi Power has easements on more than 2,200 miles of right-of-way in rural areas in southeast Mississippi, including more than 1,000 miles in Jackson, Harrison, Hancock, Pearl River, and Stone counties.

Species Survival Center to protect endangered animals

Some of the rarest animals in the world are finding their new home on the banks of the Mississippi River in New Orleans. At stake is the very survival of these species.

The Freeport-McMoran Audubon Species Survival Center opened Dec. 8. The FMA Species Survival Center, operated by the Audubon Institute, will breed endangered animals such as red wolves, Baird's tapirs, milky storks, Asian hornbills and Louisiana black bears. The goal is to pull these animals back from the brink of extinction.

"This project is the first of its kind for the Audubon Institute," said Audubon Institute President and CEO Ron Forman.

"Unlike our other facilities, the FMA Species Survival Center will not be open to the public, devoting its energies completely to boosting populations of endangered species through research and breeding."

The Audubon Institute is the non-profit organization which operates the Audubon Zoo, the Aquarium of the Americas, Audubon Park and Woldenberg Riverfront Park.

Major funding for the FMA Species Survival Center came from Freeport-McMoran Inc., a Fortune 500 natural resource company based in New Orleans. The company donated $5 million to construct the facility.

Wilderness Park, a 130-acre site with nature trails, an education center and picnic sites, will open in early 1994. It's the only portion of the Species Survival Center to be open to the public.

More than 500 acres of the 1,200 acres included in the FMA Species Survival Center are set aside as a managed wildlife habitat. Indigenous animals such as otters, egrets, deer and raccoons will be encouraged to inhabit the area.

IN AND AROUND DIAMONDHEAD

By Margaret Williamson

SEASON'S GREETINGS
The holidays are upon us, and parties in and around Diamondhead are spreading good cheer.

The Diamondhead Country Club and Pro Shop will be closed Christmas Day, but a gala New Year's Eve party is planned in the Coral Room at the country club from 8-12:30 a.m. Friday, Dec. 31.

It will include heavy hors d'oeuvres, party favors, one bottle champagne, buffet breakfast and music by Bo and Dee.

Reservations at $40 per couple must be pre-aid by Dec. 28 as seating is limited.

So, first come, first served. Call Brenda at 255-2919 for more information on how to ring in the New Year.

DIAMONDHEAD YOUTH

Paul Montjoy, general manager of the Diamondhead POA, announces that drainage work in support of the new playground area at the youth complex on Diamondhead Dr. East continues through December.

The new ball field area should be fenced and site work completed, so the ball field will be ready for play in March.

The Diamondhead Youth Organization has worked awfully hard to see this wonderful facility come to reality for the benefit of all the youth in our community.

Plans are also underway to work on the old stable area for use as a park.

DIAMONDHEAD COMMUNITY CHURCH

The church reminds us that Christmas can be an empty and lonely time for some when families are scattered, or loved ones are no longer around.

If you want to fill that emptiness with something worthwhile, they invite everyone to join as they worship God, thank him for Jesus and give lots of food, clothing and toys to see that many families do not have empty stockings at Christmas time. Worship is every Sunday at 10 a.m.

DIAMONDHEAD SQUARE AND COMPASS CLUB

This active group of gentlemen who meet at 3 p.m. on the second Wednesday of each month has made our Fire Chief Westbrook a lot happier for the holidays.

They are providing one of the radio pagers he needed for the fire department.

At least five more are needed, so all you other organizations who want to help our fire department, fund raisers, etc. are needed and welcome.

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

Reggy Haien's lovely Harbor House town home in Diamondhead was the setting for the Canasta Club to say good-bye and good luck to a dear friend, Cookie Mittelbronn, who with her husband, Edward, (with McDermott Int.) is moving to Singapore right after Christmas. We all will miss that "happy face."

Parties spread Christmas cheer

DIAMONDHEAD HAPPENINGS

If you didn't get to see Diamondhead Academy's beautiful Christmas tree decorated entirely with ornaments made by the students, we show it again with Witney Bowne, left, first grade, and Marjorie Blanchette, second grade, placing their ornaments on it.

Last week was a busy week for the students filled with holiday activities. Wednesday, Dec. 15, the honor choir performed for the garden club and Woodland Village Nursing Home.

Thursday the entire student body presented a musical program for parents, relatives and friends. The week ended, and their holiday vacation began when a traditional Christmas breakfast was prepared for all the students and staff by the room mothers. What a nice way to say Merry Christmas.

THOUGHTS TO SHARE

The universal joy of Christmas is certainly wonderful. We ring the bells when princes are born, or toll a mournful dirge when great men pass away.

Nations have their red-letter days, their carnivals and festivals; but once in the year, and only once, the whole world stands still to celebrate the advent of a life.

Only Jesus of Nazareth claims this worldwide, undying remembrance. You cannot cut Christmas out of the calendar, nor out of the heart of the world.

MY THOUGHTS

It's not just the tree and the presents, it's not just the fun and the cheer. It is remembering, too, all the dear folks like you, who make Christmas mean more every year, wishing you peace, joy and love at Christmas time and throughout the New Year.

ST. ANN AND ST. JOHN NEWS

Thoughts for meditation:
Joy is the banner that flies over the castle when the King is in residence.

May He give you the desire of your heart and make all your plans succeed. We will shout for joy when you are victorious and will lift up your banners in the name of our God. May the Lord grant all your requests.

Psalms 20:4-5

The most important part about Christmas is the first six letters.

... I bring you good news of great joy that will be for all people.

... a Savior has been born to you; he is Christ the Lord.

Luke 2:10-11

If our need had been information, God would have sent an educator.

If our need had been technology, God would have sent us a scientist.

If our need had been money, God would have sent us an economist.

If our need had been pleasure, God would have sent us an entertainer.

But our greatest need was forgiveness, so God sent us a Savior.

But God demonstrates His own love for us in this: While we were still sinners, Christ died for us.

Romans 5:8

Behold, what manner of love the Father hath given unto us.

Gardening gifts answer last minute questions

By Dr. Milo Burnham

Extension Service

Christmas isn't far away, and the pressures for last minute shopping and gifts are increasing.

You've visited the malls, but have you shopped at your local retail garden center and nursery, the building supply store, the country co-op, the lighting store, book store, gifts and antique shop? These are favorite haunts of gardeners.

Retailing has gotten so that you really can't know what type of merchandise a store has until you spend time in the store, looking and poking around.

When it comes to shopping for the gardeners in your family and among your friends, the problem isn't what to get them, but what not to get them.

If Christmas shopping has left you unable to think, consider some of these items for gardeners.

Books often are appreciated and give gardeners a chance to read about gardening when there isn't much going on. Gardeners have many interests so the same person will enjoy a wide variety of titles.

Garden and patio furniture is always useful and appreciated. These items are too large to put under the Christmas tree, but a hammock, lawn chair, porch rocking chair, swing or patio dining chairs and table make great gifts and you can count on their usefulness.

Statuary or "hard" features for the yard make lasting gifts. A number of years ago I gave myself a cement fox, and it still graces a shady spot under the redbud tree.

You'll find such items at retail garden centers. While there, take time to look at the fabricated water gardens.

Water gardening is rapidly growing in popularity, and the suppliers have provided a size and shape of pool to suit everyone.

No more do you have to worry about making a cement pool and turing it. These are now flexible, poly liners as well as rigid, plastic liners that come in a great variety of shapes and sizes.

A gift certificate for a pool should be a hot item this Christmas.

If the pool itself is too rich for your pocket book, consider giving a book on water gardening. Anyone serious about a pool for plants and fish should read about it first.

Pruning shears, trowels and other hand equipment make excellent gifts that are always needed and appreciated. You'll find lots of items to choose from at garden centers, co-ops and building supply stores. Also consider a leaf blower or hedge trimmer.

When shopping for equipment, consider quality as well as price. You may be ahead of the game to pay a little more to get an item that will not only hold up longer but be easier to repair if and when it does break down.

A garden equipment repairman mentioned this summer that frequently the lower priced items manufactured for mass marketing work fine but are a "bear" to repair.

The flower lovers on your Christmas list will surely appreciate a vase or frog for arranging flowers. With the popularity of dried flowers, consider giving a flower press or a supply of silica-gel for drying flowers.

Birds are an important part of every garden. While fruit gardeners are more than likely interested in discouraging birds, most gardeners welcome birds.

In the dead of winter a group of cardinals can really brighten the place up. Bird feeders, both for seed eating birds and hummingbirds, make excellent gifts.

Visit a lighting center to see the various types of outdoor lighting available for lighting your deck, patio, walkways, shrubs and trees.

A few well-placed lights in your yard will improve its attractiveness, make evening entertaining more enjoyable, and provide safety and security at steps.

Stennis surpasses goal of charity fund-raising

Employees from NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center donated more than $190,000 to the Combined Agencies Campaign (CAC), surpassing their pledged goal of $144,255 by 34 percent.

Nearly all agencies met or surpassed their goals for the center's annual charity drive. The federal employees reported a total pledge amount of $120,133 while the industrial employees recorded $73,150 in pledge donations. The federal goal was $90,735, and the industrial goal was $53,590.

Commenting on the center's commitment to the CAC, Stennis Space Center director Roy Estess stated, "We need to step out and help those in need and not wait for someone else to do it for us. We have proved once again that we are more than willing to do this."

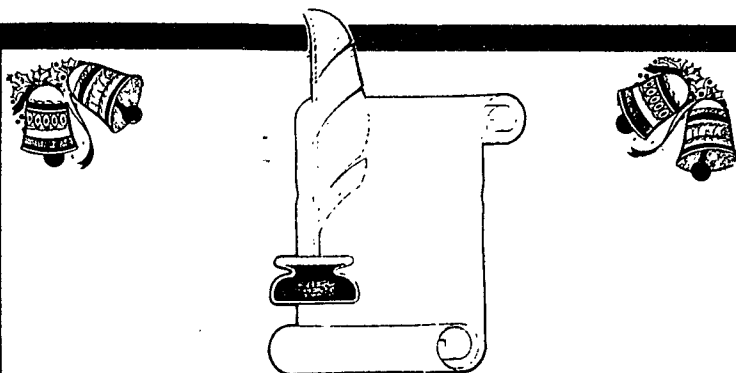

Over the past five years, the CAC has raised close to $1 million at Stennis Space Center. SSC employees contributions will go toward supporting United Way agencies in Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, Pearl River, George and Stone counties.

Funds will also assist those in St. Tammany Parish and the Greater New Orleans area in Louisiana. However, employees were permitted to designate which organizations will receive their donations from over 650 local, national and international agencies.

The center's federal portion of the drive is part of the Mississiippi Coast Association of Federal Administrators' (MCAFA) Combined Federal Campaign (CFC). The CFC solicits contributions from the 25,000 federal employees on the Mississippi Gulf Coast.

May Peace, Joy and Prosperity Be Yours

To sum it up in a word,
"Cheers!" With our best regards.

Diamondhead giving tree

Diamondhead Postmaster April Clement, Hancock County Youth Court Judge Ann Williamson and Hancock County Truancy Officer Yvonne Montz place gifts around a Giving Tree at the Diamondhead Post Office. The Giving Tree, sponsored by the Hancock County Youth Court and the Diamondhead Post Office, was set up in the post office earlier this month to provide gifts for needy children in the county. Williamson supplied names of 21 children for post office patrons to pick from the tree. She said the support from the Diamondhead community was overwhelming as they received money to supply food to needy families in addition to the gifts for children. Reservists, Guardsmen eligible for benefits

Hundreds of Air Force Reservists and Air National Guardsmen may not have been informed they were eligible for several benefits when they were involuntarily separated from the service after Oct. 1, 1991.

The Air Force is attempting to locate Air Guardsmen and Reservists with between eight and 15 years of service who were released without being told they were eligible for transition benefits, including separation pay, commissary and exchange benefits and education assistance funds.

TSgt. Lyn Willequer of the Air Reserve Personnel Center in Denver said letters are being sent to all Reservists and Guardsmen who can be located. Willequer said, however, that many personnel records are stored in government warehouses and that many addresses the Air Force has are out of date.

COURTESY PROGRAM

If you are finding more caring and courteous employees during your visits to VA facilities these days, it may be because of the department's new program, "VA — Putting Veterans First." The program is designed to make the 250,000 VA aware of the need to show courtesy and respect during their day-to-day dealings with veterans.

VA says the program should cut down on patient and customers complaints and also help VA become more efficient and productive.

Activities to fill the Christmas break

With school out for the holidays and children in from the cold, you may be wondering what you can do to keep your children busy. Dr. Gloria Corro, professor of curriculum and instruction at Mississippi State University, has a few suggestions for keeping your little ones constructively active during their Christmas break.

— Read! Read! Read! Allow children to read to themselves or to you; they'll also benefit from your reading to them.

— Bake with your children. Children learn measurements and the concept of parts that make a whole when baking.

Baking also gives them pride in something they have completed.

— Screen carefully the television programs your children watch. You may wish to watch programs with your children and to consider limiting the amount of time they spend on television viewing.

— Suggest that children keep a journal of holiday experiences or write about what they like best about Christmas.

— Let children do cleaning, set the table or help decorate.

— If you buy board games for children, be sure to check the age range for the games.

— There are several good educational computer programs for children if a computer is available.

Double your fun. This black beauty takes two with real class. The adjustable seat is a special feature that accomodates two people. The flexible hand-hold is convenient for passengers of many sizes and the padded nerf bars give the riders a feeling of being part of the machine. That seat has real automotive styling with its high back comfort and pleated cover over a dense foam cushion. There's a lot of special engineering from the passenger's foot guard to drop frame and wide track design. The parking brake is unique, too. It sets easily. You start the engine, get in and a simple foot tap releases the brake, and your off. A great safety idea from Manco.

Poinsettias

Add color to holiday decorating

By Bethany Waldrop
MSU Ag Communications

Poinsettias have been prized throughout history for their brilliant colors, and are still valued as a festive touch for homes
during the holidays.

In recent years, plant breeders have introduced many new patterns of color and sizes of poinsettias.

"Christmas wouldn't be the same without beautiful poinsettias," said Dr. David Tatum, state extension nursery specialist at Mississippi State University.

"The red poinsettias are the most popular, but with the variety of choices in color, size and texture, you can find the perfect poinsettia for every mood, color scheme and pocketbook."

Poinsettias now are available in almost every color of the rainbow in both solids and marbled patterns. Popular colors include white, burgundy, gold, lemon yellow, ivory, pink and deep rose.

Tatum said many people who have enjoyed the plants for years don't realize the colorful history of the poinsettias and how they came to be a part of the holiday season.

Poinsettias are native to Mexico and were first cultivated in the present-day region of Taxco. The plant the Aztecs called "Cuetlaxochitl" symbolized purity and also had many practical uses.

The Aztecs used the colorful leaves, or bracts, to make a reddish-purple dye, and they used the milky juice, or latex, in medicine to combat fever.

In the 17th century, a group of Franciscan priests who settled in Taxco grew to love the colorful red plant classified by a German taxonomist as Euphorbia pulcherrima.

Because the plant's blooming time fell near Christmas, the priests used poinsettias in the Fiesta de Santa Pesebre, a nativity celebration.

Poinsettias were first brought to the United States in the early 1800s by Joe Robert Poinsett, the first United States ambassador to Mexico.

Poinsett was a noted botanist who shared the plant with other horticulturists and botanical gardens. The plants were named in his honor and initially marketed as the Euphorbia poinsettia.

Albert Ecke, a German immigrant who settled near Los Angeles in 1902, launched the popularity and worldwide availability of the plants.

Ecke and his family sold the fresh-cut flowers during the Christmas season. After developing hardier plants, Ecke began to market them as living symbols of Christmas.

Ecke's descendants still produce poinsettias, and they own patents for the majority of the poinsettia varieties grown com-mercially today.

If poinsettias are given proper care, they will last several months. To keep your poinsettia healthy, Tatum suggested:

— Look for tightly clustered, small, central flowers with crisp, bright foliage when selecting a poinsettia.

— Water the plant thoroughly when surface soil is dry to the touch. Discard excess water from the potted plant's saucer.

— Keep the plant in a temperature range of 60 degrees for night and 72 degrees for day to prolong color. High humidity is preferable for the plants.

— Avoid placing the plant near cold drafts or near warm air vents.

"The poinsettia is a very 'forgiving' plant — it can take a lot of neglect," Tatum said. "But with a little attention, your poinsettia can remain beautiful even after the holiday season has passed."

Christmas play

The First United Pentecostal Church of Waveland's Sunday school presented a Christmas play at the church Dec. 12, called "The Little Lamb Who Wasn't Sleepy." Narrator Wanda Kendrick said the play was a "great success...the kids were especially great." Every year the church coordinates Christmas activities for the community, but this was the first year to perform a play.
